

"To be or not to be," was the question which hung for three years or more on the lips of the Honolulu friends of Miss Helene Irwin and Walter E. Dillingham. One day rumor would have them engaged and the next Miss Irwin would be whisked away to the mainland by her mother. Soon Mr. Dillingham would follow, and then Duke Kahanamoku and the Coast society writers would have them secretly married. And so it went on month after month, till the announcement of Mr. Dillingham's engagement to Miss Helene Irwin, which was published in the Hawaiian Islands, San Francisco papers, and the engagement of Miss Helene Irwin and Charles Crocker. And so ends all of the whisperings of the San Francisco and Honolulu social set regarding these two popular young members. The announcement of the Crocker-Irwin engagement did not contain the date set for the wedding and the young bride-to-be has gone to Santa Barbara to spend the summer months. Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham will spend their honeymoon in Europe and will come to Honolulu to reside, where a pretty bungalow is being planned for them at Diamond Head.

Argonauts—As soon as Miss Ethel Crocker has entirely recovered from her recent illness she and Mrs. W. H. Crocker will return to America, and expect to spend the summer in their new home at Burlington.

The many Honolulu friends of Doctor George A. Lang, D. S. N., who was at one time stationed at this port, will be interested in the following clipping from the Army and Navy Journal: "The infant son of Dr. George A. Lang, D. S. N., and Mrs. Lang (Miss Helen Van Courtlandt de Peyster) was christened by Bishop Greer in St. Bartholomew's Church, New York city, April 8. Mrs. Frederick J. de Peyster, the grandmother, and its two godfathers were—uncle, Ashton F. de Peyster, and Henry P. Shoemaker, whose son, William Brock Shoemaker, married Miss Ella de Peyster. The child, who is now four months old, was named George Augustus for its father.

At the time that Rear Admiral Terry E. N. was stationed here there was no more popular member of the social set than his charming young daughter, Rear Admiral and Miss Terry are now making their home in Washington, D. C., and the last issue of the Army and Navy Journal contains an account of an elaborate dinner given by them at the Alibi Club in that city at which the guests were General and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Miss Elkins, Miss Parrish, Miss Hagner, Mr. Simpkins, Mr. Curtis and Lieutenant Camperio of the Italian Embassy.

In the March issue of the Green Book, in an article headed "Parents Who Object," Arthur Martin says that "the most vital decision in the life of every human being is that which determines his career, whether it be professional or otherwise," and follows this with the stories of the objections raised by the parents of the majority of the theatrical stars, both men and women, of the day. Under the heading of "William Lewers' Persistence" the author devotes one of the largest spaces in the article to the Honolulu actor, in the following words:

"Another clever young actor, who was obliged to take a circuitous route to the stage-door was Mr. William Lewers. Honolulu was his birthplace, and his mother was of the famous Carter family, whose name in the Sandwich Islands is as familiar as that of the ex-queen.

"There are traditions in the Carter family, and one of them is that the sons should be educated in Boston; so Mr. Lewers was sent there when he was sixteen years of age. Now the theories in Boston are a great improvement on those in Honolulu, and it very soon came to the ears of Lewers that his son was making too close a study of the difference. And when he finally learned that the boy was seriously intending to take up a stage-career he took him back to Honolulu and tried to make a business-man out of him.

"This, however, only smothered the boy's ambition, and by way of taking his mind completely from the stage the father took his son on a long trip to Europe. But even that succeeded in diverting his mind only temporarily, and upon their return to America young Lewers broke away from his father's restraining hand and became an actor."

Another Honolulu favorite, given a lengthy paragraph under the title "Some Women Stars," is Miss Julia Dean, who during her two engagements in this city with the James Neil company made a great success. Of Miss Dean, Mr. Martin writes:

"When Miss Julia Dean first made up her mind that she would one day be an actress there was not much encouragement about the house to help along her ambition. An aunt for whom she was named—Julia Dean—was a popular star many years ago, and with this idealizer before her, Miss Julia's theatrical ambitions began to develop when she was only a little girl. But the early start was a help, for it gave her plenty of time in which to educate her mother to her way of thinking—the maternal objection being the only obstacle that stood in her way. And before she had half-finished her course in the high-school of Salt Lake City, she had completely won her mother over, and immediately after that her debut was made with a stock company in her home town."

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. de Young and their daughter Miss Kathleen de Young, who spent some months here last summer have left their home in San Francisco for the east, enroute to Europe, where they will spend the balance of the summer and fall.

Friends of Mrs. Ured Sebree will be pleased to learn that Rear Admiral and Mrs. Sebree have decided not to return to the East but to make their future home on the Coast, where they will divide their time between San Francisco and Coronado, where Mrs. Sebree's father is living.

Through the influence of E. A. P. Newcomb the Kilauea Art League music circle has secured many special compositions of the well-known American composers for the American Composers Concert which they are planning to give on the evening of Thursday, the twenty-sixth of May. Mr. Newcomb wrote personal letters to several of the composers and received in return letters expressing a great interest in the affair and also copies of the composers' favorite compositions and several new compositions to be used at the concert. Among the well-known composers whose music will be on the program are Carrie Jacobs Bond, Margaret Lane, E. A. P. Newcomb, Arthur Foote, Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, Farwell, McDowell and Chadwick.

Mrs. Clifford Kimball, who has been for some time the houseguest of her father Tom King, during her mother's absence on Kama'i, has rejoined her husband at Haleiwa.

Mrs. Tom King returned on the Kilauea the first of the week from a pleasant trip to Kailua to visit her daughter, Mrs. Charles Rice.

Judge and Mrs. Sidney Ballou, who returned home on the Manahua after a three months' absence on the mainland, are being made the incentive to a round of social entertainments by their friends.

The annual meeting of the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be held at half-past three tomorrow afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Macintyre, Maunaloa. The annual election of officers is to take place, and some important suggestions will be brought up for discussion and action. For this reason a large attendance of members is desired, the program which will take up the latter part of the meeting will be musical in character, and assures a most enjoyable time for all present.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson, Miss Lillian Robertson and Miss Grace Robertson, after an absence of six months, will arrive home on the Wilhelmina and again occupy their beautiful home on Bingham and Artesian streets.

Mrs. John T. Warren is being warmly welcomed by her friends after being away for the past two months on a visit to her grandmother and friends in Pasadena, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Schaefer, who the guests of honor on Thursday evening at a little dinner given by Bruce Cartwright, Jr., at the Young.

Mrs. Martha O. Smith of Long Beach, California, arrived on the Manahua and is the houseguest of her daughter, Mrs. D. Stephen Norton Robb at her home at 1714 Anapuni street.

Bishop Restarick is among the passengers booked to depart on the Sierra on the eighteenth for San Francisco.

Miss Madge McCandless was married in New York city on the twenty-eighth of last month to Lieutenant Deplura of the United States revenue cutter service.

One of the pleasant courtesies extended to W. Franklin Pierce, the grandnephew of Masons of California, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Pierce, was an automobile trip around the island on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. William Pierce given in honor of her brother, G.

Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Towse made up the party of six. The day was fair and cool, the luncheon at Haleiwa up to the Kimball standard, and the visitors were much interested in the many sights along the beautiful roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Argusson have gone down to the Peninsula to spend the week end.

Mrs. Frederick Kiebaum and the Misses Walker gave a picnic luncheon on Wednesday at Waialeale in Kalihi valley at which the complimented guest was Mrs. Kiebaum. About forty guests motored out in time for luncheon and later enjoyed a swim in the fresh water pool.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis and their son Donald are at present domiciled at the Maunaloa where they will remain until their departure for Australia.

Mrs. John Ellinger, accompanied by her sister, Miss Ellenders of Portland, who is her houseguest, departed on the Maunaloa Kea on Tuesday to take in the volcano.

Tennis devotees are taking a great interest in watching the playing of Mrs. Coulter in the Wall cup series at the Beretania Courts as that player is scheduled to uphold the honors for Hawaii in California this fall where she will have to play against such well-known players of the racket, as Miss Sutton and Miss Hatcher. Mrs. Coulter's friends are hoping that their champion will return home loaded with fresh laurels.

Mrs. S. E. Halstead and her daughter, Mrs. A. H. Lockland, are planning to depart on the Sierra on the eighteenth for an extended visit on the mainland.

Among the departing passengers on the Mongolia is Mrs. James Saunders, the wife of Captain Saunders, who has been stopping at the Maunaloa for several months. Mrs. Saunders will go to visit with Mrs. James Hough and Miss Helen Hough of that city, and upon her return will reside at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander J. Campbell entertained with a dinner party for fourteen on Wednesday evening in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dowsett.

At the reception and ball tendered by Franklin Pierce, Grand Master Mason of California at the Young Hotel on Tuesday evening, there was a bewildering array of beautiful gowns displayed by the young women of the social set present. The decoration had been carried out in California poppies in honor of the complimented guest, home State and the entrance to the ballroom was marked with a large Masonic emblem made of colored electric lights.

Mrs. Eben Low was the hostess yesterday at a pool luncheon at her home on King street given in honor of Mrs. Kiebaum. The table was decorated with red carnations and the guests were presented with leis to match.

Miss Eva Lindeman, the California singer who is visiting here with her brother, Ferdinand Lindeman, left on the Maunaloa Kea Tuesday morning to visit the volcano. Miss Lindeman will give a concert in Hilo before returning to Honolulu.

On Monday afternoon Governor and Mrs. Walter E. Frear gave their last At Home of the season at Aiea and will not resume them until October. An unusually large and brilliant gathering attended on Monday. Mrs. Frear was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. B. E. Dillingham and Mrs. Hyde Smith. Miss Mae Damon presided over the punch bowl and tea was served by Mrs. Harold Dillingham and Mrs. E. R. Day. During the afternoon the hostess received a cablegram announcing the marriage of her brother, Walter Dillingham, to Miss Louise Gaylord in Italy. The following men and women assisted in entertaining the three hundred or more guests who called: Mrs. B. P. Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Erdman, Mr. Harold Dillingham, Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. J. S. Bill Buster's Letter to His Father

Dear Pa:—Last Monday morning I reported for work at the Gas Works. The man in charge there showed me around and introduced me to all the men in their work, which is a good deal more than I could say for myself. The Gas Works is a maze of pipes, boilers, tanks, engines and machinery. I'll tell you, Pa, it is hard to realize the care and attention they give to the manufacturing and delivering of good gas to the public. The Boss tells me that the gas here is made from oil, the same as all the large towns on the Pacific Coast. He said gas could be made from coal, coke, water, wood and many other substances, none of them beginning to compare with oil gas for purity and heating and lighting values. The gas engine is a series of large steel shells, filled with a checker-work of firebrick. They are heated to a white heat, and the oil is then sprayed on these hot brick and is turned to gas, which is called hydro-carbon gas. The gas is then washed and scrubbed and purified many times until there is absolutely no chance of any dirt remaining. The Boss tells me they are more particular about delivering good, clean gas, here, than in almost any other city in the world. Last week I'll tell you how the gas is delivered to the consumers. With love, BILL.

Music lovers enjoyed a rare treat on Thursday evening when Sydney Hobbs gave his first organ recital in this city at the Central Union church. The two numbers of Mr. Hobbs' program which seemed best suited to bring out the qualities of the church instrument were Bartok's "Pilgrim's Song of Hope" and The Evening Star from Tannhauser. Philip Hall sang an aria from Stainer's "Credence" and Crossing the Bar, and Mrs. Allen White's voice was beautifully suited to Hear Ye, Israel, from Mendelssohn's Elijah. Miss Margaret Clarke played the accompaniments for the soloists.

Miss Emma Wadman and Miss Helen Quarles, two popular members of the younger social set who left here several weeks ago, have arrived safely in Berlin where they will take up the study of music.

The Boston Transcript devotes some space to the account of the wedding in that city on the twenty-eighth of April of Arthur G. Smith and Miss Helen Chase Fessenden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pitt Fessenden of that city. The wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Wilder (Ethel Fessenden) at Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Honolulu.

Miss Julie Raymond has returned from a visit of several weeks at the volcano and is the houseguest of Mrs. W. W. Hall at her home in Nanuanu Valley.

On Thursday evening Ernest Parker was the host at a jolly swimming party given at the beautiful Parker bungalow in Maunaloa Valley. The guests motored up the valley, had a delightful swim in the fresh water pool, were served with a hot supper and returned in motor cars by the way of the Pull. Mr. Parker's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Atong, Mrs. Jambart, Miss Margaret McIntyre, Miss Frank Dickson, William Dickson and Robert Paris of Kama'i.

Mrs. Francis M. Sawney and her two daughters are booked to leave New York city on the Maunaloa on the fifth of next month for Europe where they will tour the Continent in their automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Waterhouse are planning to leave soon for Singapore, India, and will probably be gone a year or more.

Mr. Samuel Parker celebrated his birthday anniversary yesterday afternoon by giving a real Hawaiian party to fifty of his friends. The affair was given at the Parker home on King street and a Hawaiian quartet played throughout the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Macfarlane and Miss Alice Macfarlane have gone to the other side of the island to spend several weeks at Ahimau.

Mrs. M. F. Prosser and her son Miss Thatcher, did not depart on the Mongolia as they were unable to secure accommodations. They will leave the Sierra.

Lieut. Ernest K. Johnstone, who reserve corps, and Mrs. Ernest K. Johnstone entertained delightfully at their quarters, number four, Shafter, on Thursday evening at Miss Marjory Allen, niece of Dr. Mrs. Johnstone, assisted in giving the hospitality of the post home.

Mrs. Manuel M. Garrett, wife of Lieut. Manuel M. Garrett, Twelfth Infantry, is expected here about the twelfth of May, as a passenger on the Steadman from the mainland. Mr. Garrett is coming from Fort Rogers, Harrison, Indiana, accompanied by a small daughter, to attend the wedding of her sister, Miss Alice Spaulding, Lieut. George Cleveland Bowen, Twelfth Infantry, which has been set for June the eighth. Mrs. Garrett will be a guest at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding, where many friends will be happy to welcome the former Honolulu girl. It will be years in August next since Lieut. and Mrs. Garrett were married in Episcopal church here.

Mrs. Murray Bartlett and her daughter were among the visitors to this city during the past week, and were the recipients of their brief stay. Mrs. Bartlett is the wife of Dr. Murray Bartlett, late of Boston, Mass., and now Rector of the Cathedral of St. Mary and Saint John of Island of St. Thomas, at Manila, P. I. Doctor Bartlett is next to Right Reverend Bishop Charles H. Brent in charge of the Episcopal work in the Philippine Islands. Dr. Murray Bartlett succeeded Rev. Merion Green Johnston as Rector of the Cathedral at Manila, about two years ago, and remains at his post of duty, while Mrs. Bartlett goes to the mainland on a brief visit.
